

Credit & Risk Analyst

ProCareer Ltd. is recruiting on behalf of its client - a leading international physical supplier and bunker trader of marine fuel with over 20 years of experience. The company is well-regarded for its strong reputation in marine bunkering, combining deep market expertise across multiple regions with a pragmatic, results-driven approach.

We are currently seeking a Credit & Risk Analyst to join our team and take ownership of credit assessment, compliance and receivables management across a global portfolio.

This role works directly with the CFO and sits at the intersection of credit, risk and broader business decision-making. It is not a purely operational role - we expect independent thinking and contribution to how decisions are made.

What you will be doing:

Credit & Risk

- Take ownership of credit-related processes and contribute to their development
- Assess client creditworthiness and assign credit limits
- Support decision-making on complex credit cases
- Monitor existing exposure and flag risks proactively

Compliance & KYC

- Manage KYC process for new clients
- Perform compliance checks on clients and transactions
- Ensure documentation is complete and properly maintained

Receivables & Debt Recovery

- Track receivables and identify delays early
- Follow up with clients and coordinate recovery actions
- Coordinate with internal teams and external parties to drive the recovery process

What we are looking for:

- Background in credit risk within bunker trading
- Experience working with complex client structures and incomplete information
- Hands-on involvement in credit and compliance decision-making processes
- Exposure to debt collection / recovery processes
- Relevant degree in Finance, Economics or a related field

What drives success in this role:

- Analytical mindset combined with sound practical judgement
- Strong prioritisation in a fast-paced environment
- Decisive when working with uncertainty and incomplete information
- High level of accuracy with consistent follow-through
- Self-driven, with a clear sense of ownership and accountability
- Clear and confident communication, with the ability to challenge stakeholders and hold position when needed

What we offer:

- Permanent full-time role in an international organisation with a long-standing presence in the bunkering market and a strong business reputation
- Direct exposure to decision-making at management level
- Opportunity to shape and improve credit processes
- Broad scope beyond traditional credit analyst role
- Opportunity to take on broader responsibilities over time, depending on performance
